

NATIONALRAD POLICY

MRI and CT Patients Scanned with Contrast

All facilities scanning patients with intravenous contrast administration during the course of an MRI or CT scan must provide NationalRad with documentation of the contrast's trade name and specific amount of contrast administered to each patient. This information should be documented on the patient history sheet provided to NationalRad and must be included as a permanent record on the images. This information will be dictated on the patient's final report by the interpreting radiologist.
